

example), so for a smaller club like ours it works well. We coordinated with schools towards the end of the school year, as teachers are looking for curriculum to fill time, and kids like to be read to and engaged, so it's a perfect chance to have a captive audience to introduce the 4 Way Test.

12. What did not work well and how would you suggest improving it? For this project, everything seemed to work well. Sometimes scheduling with the schools took time, but it was just a matter of follow up and clear communication to choose a date/time that worked for the schools.

13. How was this project publicized? Our club's president, Dr. Michelle Aldrich, contacted the elementary schools in the triad of the school district we were distributing books in and coordinated with the school's administration as to when members of our club would come to distribute the books and talk about the 4-Way Test.
