Project Title: Construction of hand-dug water wells in Uganda

Project Description

1. Briefly describe the project. What was done, when and where did project activities take place, and who were the beneficiaries?

The project involved constructing two hand-dug water wells for two rural communities (Zirobwe village and Nakaseke village) in Uganda. During the construction of the water wells, local people were involved in the process by digging the water holes. Then EATBETA used the funds from HEB Rotary and the District grant to purchase the construction materials which could not be afforded by the villagers. Approximately 500 villagers will benefit from the water wells.

2. How many Rotarians participated in the project? 9

3. What did they do? Please give at least two examples.

The Rotarians (HEB Rotary Club Executive board) reviewed the project proposal and determined that it was a worthwhile cause, hence they approved funding for the project from the club budget and recommended the project for the district matching grant.

4. How many Non-Rotarians participated in the project? 10

5. What are the expected long-term community impacts of the project?

Availability of clean water from the water wells will enable beneficiaries from two rural communities in Uganda to avoid infections and diseases from using stagnant dirty water.

6. If a cooperating organization was involved, what was its role?

EATBETA International Foundation solicited funding for the water wells and identified the two rural villages (Zirobwe and Nakaseke) in Uganda which were in a dire need of clean water.
