Rotary Scholarship Essay

Dr. Seuss once said "Unless someone like you cares a whole awful lot, nothing is going to get better. It's not." I believe that to be true. I work a lot in my community and volunteer my time to make this community and world a better place. I care a whole lot about this community and this world we live in.

I plan to go to college to major in Animal Science and minor in Environmental Science. My career and personal goal is to become a zoologist or a wildlife conservationist. As a member of the environmental science club, I had the opportunity to participate in a beach clean-up at Porter Beach, Indiana. I devoted my entire day to cleaning up garbage on and alongside the beach. Not only was it rewarding to me but valuable to the environment because I helped make the beach a cleaner place and safer for animals and humans. This work directly impacted the community and the environment and I want to continue these service projects and research on the environment and biodiversity throughout the rest of my life.

I volunteer every Sunday at church for the greater good of the children. I hope that I am a leader and motivate these children to come to church and to some day take over for me and do what I do. I also am involved and volunteer my time to other community organizations such as reading buddies at the Manteno Public Library and packing food bags at the food pantry.

Through community service and just helping and being a kind individual one can make a huge impact on members of the community and the community itself. I hope that I have made the slightest impact on the life of others and continue to do so.

To The Manteno Rotary Club,

I am writing to enthusiastically recommend Olivia Willis for consideration for the Rotary Club Scholarship. As Olivia's Chemistry teacher during the 2021-2022 school year, I have had the pleasure of watching her grow into an exceptional student and an outstanding young person.

Throughout Olivia's time in my class, she consistently demonstrated a deep commitment to learning and a strong work ethic. She was an active participant in class discussions, always willing to share her thoughts and engage with her peers. Her assignments were completed on time and she strove for excellence on all of her assignments, from homework to unit exams.

Beyond her academic achievements, Olivia is also a leader in the school community. She not only participates in clubs and activities, but also has attained leadership roles in many of them, including President of both Student Council and Best Buddies. She is respected by her classmates and teachers alike, and has consistently demonstrated a high level of integrity and character.

In addition to her academic and extracurricular achievements, I have been particularly impressed with Olivia's personal qualities. She is kind, thoughtful, and always willing to lend a helping hand to those in need. She has a strong sense of empathy and is able to connect with people from all walks of life. She is truly a joy to teach and an asset to our community.

I have no doubt that Olivia will continue to excel in all her future endeavors. She has the intellect, the drive, and the character to make a significant contribution to any institution she chooses to attend, and the Rotary Club Scholarship would be a deserving and worthwhile investment in her future. I give her my highest recommendation without reservation.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions or if I can provide any further information.

Sincerely,

Matt Clymer

Growing up somewhere as tight-knit as Manteno gave me the privilege to experience the beauty of a community marked with kindness. As a little girl, I quickly learned the powerful influence that one random act of kindness can have on someone. I have learned two important lessons growing up in Manteno and they all circle back to one simple act. Living down the road from the elementary school promised walking to school come rain or shine. I always made sure to put my arm around my younger sister during the journey, for crossing the street was dangerous. On Valentine's Day, our sweet crossing guard gave my sister and me chocolate heart boxes. I vividly remember him complimenting me on always protecting my baby sister. This simple act has stayed with me all the way to high school. I learned two things. One is to never be afraid to compliment someone on something special you see about them. Genuine compliments from the heart always leave a mark. And secondly, to give without regret. A box of chocolates may seem insignificant to most people, but whenever I see one I remember the kind man who, without fail, made sure I reached my destination safely. The fact that he went out and specially bought them for my sister and me touched my heart. He inspired me to try and do the same. I have given all the time, passion, and dedication that I possess to try and better my community. My eyes were opened, at a very young age, to the impact one can have on another. I do not know where the kind crossing guard is now, but I do wish he knew how much I appreciate him, and I hope I have made him proud.

To Whom it May Concern:

My name is Alexis Hosselton. I am a Physical Education teacher and varsity volleyball coach at Manteno High School. I am writing on behalf of one of my student-athletes. I've had the privilege of coaching this student in volleyball since she was in middle school. I helped coach her in Impulse Volleyball Club during her 8th grade season. I then coached her as a freshman and as a senior at Manteno High School. This student is truly one of the hardest-working, most dedicated athletes that I have had the pleasure of coaching. Her hardwork and dedication to the sport of volleyball has shined through her selflessness and leadership within our program. No matter what, she has always been a person that her teammates counted on to bring the energy, fun, and motivation during every single volleyball game. This student was always searching for ways to improve and better herself to not only increase playing time, but to better her team, as well.

This student also has shown great leadership by assisting me as a high school helper during my 8th grade volleyball season. Some of the responsibilities that she had while helping me were running drills in practice to better the young athletes, running most of our warm-ups on game days, and finding ways to motivate the players to always want to improve. During middle school season, there were many times where she actually led my practices with another high school helper due to me having a family emergency or an appointment for my pregnancy. I had full trust in her leading my players in a successful practice that prepared them for any games they had. I appreciate the help that she volunteered very much.

While being involved in volleyball, this student has managed to maintain excellent grades in school and is involved in many extracurriculars. These include being the President of National Honor Society, the President of Environmental Science Club, and she is a member of Student Council, Interact Club, and Women's Leadership Academy. She is also the Vice President of the Senior Class of '23.

This student possesses great leadership qualities and demonstrates time management skills to be a successful student-athlete. While she works very hard in the gym, this student makes schoolwork a priority, even after late night sporting and club events. She has been a pleasure to coach and I cannot wait to see what she will accomplish in the future. By managing sports, clubs, high school classes, and still finding time to be a kid, this student makes an excellent candidate for the Manteno Rotary Scholarship. She is the kind of student-athlete that has shined through her athletic and academic careers at Manteno High School, and she will continue to shine in all future endeavors.

Sincerely,
Alexis Hosselton

Essay - How citizens change the life of others in their community

Every person is a part of someone else's story. Whether that person is the best friend, love interest, background character, or villain, they're a part of someone's story. As the story evolves, it opens up the opportunity to change someone's life. In a town like Manteno, that opportunity presents itself every day. A person could start by holding open the door of the school building or giving someone a pencil for their big test that day. However, these small things have the potential to turn into something greater and influence the environment that envelops a person. In regard to myself, I am actively involved in numerous organizations inside and outside of school. Within all of these activities, I am presented with the opportunity to create positive change in the environment around me and my community. A prime example of this opportunity is seen in Manteno "Magic", the local high school show choir. Starting with rehearsals, I am given the responsibility of learning the performance material and having the ability to reteach and lead the group to generate overall success. In this environment, individual success comes second to group-wide success. I view it as a circle, where everyone is equally expected to work together to maintain the shape yet no one is viewed as more important than the next. A certain connectedness is generated and continually built through compassion and support for my peers, creating a community within one another. This type of impact wouldn't be possible if it wasn't for the unique combination of individuals aiming to become something better. Knowing this, I realize how our story has come to fruition and left an impact on hundreds of people. It started with the opportunity to change someone's life through kindness, cooperation, and compassion for those around them.

To Whom It May Concern:

I have had the privilege of working with Natalie Meyer for her entire high school career as her guidance counselor at Manteno High School. Natalie is a very talented, driven, and energetic young woman. Her academic credentials speak for themselves. In my dealings with Natalie, I always come away very impressed with how mature her thinking is for a high school student. I have been in education for 25 years, 17 as a school counselor, and Natalie is one of the most gifted and positive students I have had the pleasure to work with.

An Illinois State Scholar and currently ranked number one in our senior class, Natalie has embraced all the opportunities and challenges afforded to her. From making meaningful contributions to our academic teams, to volunteering her time to serve our community, Natalie's selfless attitude demonstrates the type of person she is. Natalie thrives in environments that involve collaboration and teamwork. Her warm personality and sense of humor is appreciated by many. She demonstrates such a tremendous passion for many things, but being a part of our high school's award winning show choir program has had the most meaningful impact on her. She is a very talented vocalist and being an integral part of this team of talented high school students is something I know she will always cherish.

Natalie plans on majoring in a science related field in college with the goal of becoming a pharmaceutical scientist. With a passion for the sciences and mathematics, she is naturally investigative and curious. Her desire to help others and to create and problem solve makes this an excellent fit for her. She is fully aware that this is a challenging academic path, but I have no doubt that Natalie is going to embrace it and achieve all of her goals that she has set for herself. She has taken every AP course our school has offered during her high school career. Natalie, as a person and as a student, is one of the best our school has produced in the last two decades. Nobody will outwork her and she'll make the others around her better. Therefore, it is without hesitation that I give her my highest recommendation for any scholarship she is eligible for. If further information is desired, please contact me at 815-928-7105 or at pmellin@manteno5.org.

Sincerely,

Patrick M. Mellin, Manteno High School Counselor
